

A/ Striving to root the concepts of media development and free press among all peoples of the world, especially in developing countries.

b/ Work to obtain sufficient support to finance development media projects and a free press, particularly in developing countries.

C/ Urging governments and authorities to create a pluralistic media environment in which freedom of information, opinions and independence prevail, so that the development media can play its role without turning into an authoritarian or tyrannical propaganda tool.

D/ Work to raise the professional level of media professionals and journalists through holding seminars and conferences and holding training courses at the local and international levels.

E/ Requesting the legislative and executive authorities of countries to issue laws and legislations aimed at giving the media and press sectors adequate protection and support in a manner that does not affect their independence and impartiality.

F/ Combating misleading news and raising awareness of the need for citizens in all countries of the world to obtain reliable, objective and truthful news.

G/ Holding training courses for managers and officials of media institutions in developing countries and others on modern management methods and the latest modern media techniques and ways to develop them.. as media institutions that enjoy appropriate and efficient management have greater influence and broader independence.

H/ Develop and circulate scientific and academic studies on media development and development media and their role in the advancement and development of societies.

I/ Supporting and refining media and journalistic talents, presenting motivational awards, and selecting the most influential personalities in the media and journalistic field on a regular basis.

J / Monitoring violations against journalists and media professionals, monitoring violations of human rights and freedom of expression around the world, and working to expose and hold the perpetrators of these violations accountable through the authority of the courts.

K / Promoting the values of freedom of expression, human rights, peaceful coexistence, cultural exchange between peoples and societies, and intellectual freedom.